PUNCH THE CLOCK

Fourteen per cent of people in Berlin hit snooze three times or more in the morning. A quarter of the population in Mumbai doesn't have a clock.

OBJECTS OF DESIRE AND OTHER WAYS OF LOOKING AT INTERIORS

ROCK-IN' CHAIR

It looks like it belongs in Elvis' Jungle Room, thanks to its rock star pedigree – it's a collaboration between French designer Philippe Starck and musician Lenny Kravitz for Italian design house Kartell. "Mademoiselle K fur" has a black interwoven leather back and a faux-fur front. It's exclusively available in South Australia from Kartell in Adelaide, which is a bit of a star itself. It's the second Kartell store in Australia after Sydney.

GET STONED

They might look a little rough around the edges, but 'Pumice' door knobs and handles by UK company Haute Deco, which produces customised designs for luxury yachts, are actually smooth operators. Handmade from polyester resin they come in a variety of stone colours.
