STONE TREND

A luxury door handle company, is on trend with a family of stone-effect handles, a selection of knobs and lever handles in pumice, sandstone and other stone effects.

Haute Deco is a specialist luxury contemporary door handle company, creating artistic, statement-led door handles for prime residential homes. The company prides itself on being at the forefront of door handle design and breathes individuality, fashion and luxury into each handle created.

Founder and creative director Marie-Véronique Swannell oversees the design side in a contemporary style that reflects her own sense of timeless elegance. She is constantly on the lookout for new and unusual textures as inspiration for her collection.

Having established its own production site in Hampshire, Haute Déco has built an impressive portfolio of colours and finishes. Unique know-how on harnessing the potential of polyester resin allows for finishes such as stone, ivory and other mineral effects. In particular, the company has created three lookalike stone finishes that replicate porous lava pumice, honey-toned sandstone and a pale-grey limestone.

Being made of cast resin allows for a variety of shapes and sizes and for inserts to be secured into the castings. The handles made in this material are incredibly tactile.

“ INCREASINGLY, THE COMPANY'S PRODUCTS ARE BEING SPECIFIED FOR LUXURY YACHTS ” add to a property, Haute Déco is equally happy to advise private clients at its London showroom based on the Kings Road in the heart of the Chelsea Design Quarter.

Haute Déco believes that producing exceedingly well-made, timeless products that age well, is the most valuable contribution to sustainability.

Haute Déco supplies handles to the best address codes in London as well as to the world's property hotspots and increasingly, the company's products are being specified for luxury yachts. ■
